

End Of Year Reflections

Kim
Morrison

If there was one word to describe this year it would be...

The things I did do that I wanted to do...

The things I didn't do that I wanted to do...

The biggest defining moment of my year and what it taught me...

The things that most challenged me...

The things that brought me most joy...

Something new I tried this year...

Something that pushed me hard but paid off...

End Of Year Reflections

What I have learnt about myself this year...

I gave too much of my time to...

I wish I had spent more time on...

The things I am most proud of...

This Coming Year

I want more...

I want less...

If there were three things I would love to achieve in this next year they would be...

My word for this coming year is...
